

Participation Conditions for the Activity Offers at Falkensteiner Campsites & Residences

These participation conditions apply to participation in activity offers provided to campsite guests by a campsite operating company managed by the Falkensteiner Michaeler Tourism Group (hereinafter referred to as "Campsite Operating Company").

1. Participation at Own Risk: Participation in activity offers is at the participant's own risk. It is recommended to obtain appropriate accident and liability insurance. The participant is responsible for checking whether accident and liability insurance is legally required in certain countries. It should be noted that liability insurance is mandatory for skiing in Italy (even through the day pass).
2. Participation of Minors: Youths under 18 years old may only participate in activity offers if accompanied by an adult.
3. Health Suitability: The participant declares and assures that they have the necessary fitness and other prerequisites to participate in the activity offer.
4. Photo and Video Recordings: The participant agrees that photos and videos of participants may be taken during the activity offer, which can subsequently be published, and grants their unrestricted consent by signing this document.
5. Usage Conditions for Sports Equipment: If the activity offer includes the use of sports equipment and devices, the General Terms and Conditions for the rental of sports equipment and devices apply.
6. Specific Notices for Outdoor Activities:
  - Participants should always be aware of possible risks (such as sudden weather changes, risk of falling, rockfall, damage caused by third parties) and their consequences.
  - It is required to wear sports clothing and equipment appropriate for the activity and weather conditions. We recommend bringing drinks, a change of clothes, and rain protection. Good footwear is a prerequisite for participating in the activity. The Campsite Operating Company reserves the right to exclude participants from the activity due to inadequate equipment.
  - The group must not be left without prior notification to the guide and must strictly follow the guide's instructions.
7. Liability: The Campsite Operating Company is only liable in cases of intent or gross negligence.

By participating in the activity offers, the participant accepts these participation conditions.
